MOTHER'S DAY

Mother's Day in the Sunday School was a great success, the children giving the program. The church was banked with potted plants and carnations. At the close of the service each mother was presented with a bouquet.

At the close of the afternoon service the following addresses were read by Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Adams. Eight of the small children presented Mrs. Clements with a cut glass water set and bon-bon dish. Although Mrs. Clements was completely taken by surprise she thanked the mothers not only for the beautiful gift but for the kindly thought that prompted it.

MOTHER'S DAY

I feel that we could not let this afternoon go by without a word of appreciation, after listening to the beautiful service which has been given showing the faithful work and preparation required by the superintendent and her assistants.

Surely Mother's Day comes to us this year with a deeper and graver meaning than ever before, when in so many homes the father or older brother often both are gone and the mother is facing the responsibility alone.

I think our Sunday School in Lomond has filled a very great place indeed in the lives of our children and but for the faithfulness of Mrs. Clements and so much of the time of Mrs. Farrell and her daughters it would never have been kept alive.

Speaking as a mother and with a boy who has all too soon arrived at the inevitable age when the attractions of the street appear very strongly, I say it behooves the mothers of Lomond to uphold the hands of the superintendent and lend our sympathy in a greater degree than ever before. It is a heavy burden to carry and when we realize that this Sunday School is the only organization whatever outside of the day school in our community having for its aim the good of the children. Let me just remind you that we have in Lomond a very large group of boys between the ages of nine and thirteen who congregate I may safely say six nights out of seven on a little plot of ground not far from here to play base ball and I want to tell you that I have never listened to more profanity than I have heard coming from the lips of those boys. They are only boys, old enough to know it's wrong of course, but not old enough to realize the ugly stain that it leaves on their character; and these are the boys we are bringing up to fill the place in the world of those who have laid down their lives "Somewhere in France" that we mothers may be safe and secure at home. Can we then shirk our responsibility and dare we do ought but extend to Mrs. Clements our most sincere and prayerful assistance in the time to come.

Mrs. Williams

Dear Mrs. Clements:

It is with most extreme regret that we learn that through uncontrollable circumstances you feel that you might resign your office as superintendent of the Lomond Sunday School. During the last two years while you have been superintendent the Sunday School has grown from a small number at the beginning to its present size of fifty-four pupils. We feel that this is due to your organization and ability, coupled with your own desires to have a prosperous Sunday School in Lomond, and at the expense of your own time. We would be sorry indeed to lose our superintendent and hope circumstances may occur which will enable you to continue in your position, and to show you in some small way our appreciation of your service and extreme good will. We would ask you to accept this as a small token of our regards, not that anything that we could give you could ever repay us for the uplifting charac-

TRICKING THE CREDULOUS.

Lures of Gold Brick Schemes For the Small Investors.

Will persons with money never learn how to take care of it? Will they never guard themselves against the horde of tricksters who make a business of taking advantage of the credulous and especially of credulous women?

Bear in mind that no one will make money for you when he can make it for himself. If he offers to give you the key to wealth, suspect him, for such keys are kept by their possessors and are not given away to strangers.

The postoffice a year or two ago showed that over $150,000,000 had been lost by persons who listened to the gold brick schemers, but the game still goes on despite the vigilance of the postoffice department and the passage of protective measures, known as "blue sky laws," by many states.

Will the people never learn to discount the alluring literature which these shysters send out and which is written for them by some of the sharpest and brightest writers of our day, whose services can be easily obtained for a few dollars?

I advise my readers who receive these tempting propositions to send them at once to the postmaster general at Washington for investigation. That is the business of the postoffice department, and it will be only too happy to take up such matters.

Small investors are particularly the victims of these bunko schemes, for the false notion prevails that a man or woman with a small amount of money cannot buy high class investment securities such as successful investors prefer. This is erroneous. An investment can now be made in the best of paying securities with as small an amount as $10 through the partial payment plan, which is readily understood, though the term may sound formidable.

A LITTLE PIECE OF LEAD.

The Costliest Thing This World of Ours Has Ever Known.

Just think of one small piece of lead, probably weighing less than an ounce, that cost the world some $100,000,000,000 in money, probably $100,000,000,000 in property, more than 11,000,000 lives and individual suffering and loss impossible of computation—a bit of lead that embroiled in war Germany, Austria-Hungary, Britain, France, Belgium, the United States, Turkey, Siberia, Italy, Montenegro, Roumania, Bulgaria, Albania, Egypt, Canada, Australia, China, Japan, South Africa, India and Russia, and brought every other nation to the brink of internal trouble or outward disaster, the consequences of which are being felt by every human being, civilized or uncivilized, white, black, yellow or brown!

That small piece of lead was fired from a pistol in the hands of a crack brained youth of Serbian nativity into the body of the heir to the Austrian throne. The troubles arising from this mad act and its punishment set fire to the powder trains in Europe and led to hostile act after hostile act and finally and suddenly to open war in 1914.

That little piece of lead should be preserved as a memorial to all future generations and as the costliest thing mankind has ever known. It would become the greatest silent teacher the world has ever seen. It would teach restraint for the weak minded and violent; it would teach the importance of minor acts and things; it would teach peace as no costly monument, no book of horrors, no painting of tragedy could ever teach it.

NOTES

The war situation is somewhat easier just now and there are indications of trouble in Russia which would considerably embarrass the Germans.

Every person sixteen years and over will have to register on June 22nd.

The Allies are in need of food and everyone is asked to market their wheat by June 1st.

You can ask Dr. Walkey and ourselves about digging our way through three and four feet of snow in the middle of May. You might not believe a newspaper man but you surely would a doctor.

The rain and snow released the tension on the farmers and permeated the business atmosphere with a spirit of optimism.

After all we are not so very far removed from 1914 and one can not scorn the people's timidity. Money is tight and living is high and the country is not in a position to withstand another crop failure. But Providence is kind and we are well on the way to a bountiful harvest.

Since the rains have come we might well look for mushrooms and mosquitos.

CAUGHT IN DENSE JUNGLE.

British Aviator Encountered Crocodiles, Lions, and Hippos.

Terrible experiences of a British aviator in the East African jungle are told by him in a letter received as a relative at Guildford. The aviator, Lieut. G. Garrod, of the Royal Flying Corps, went up to bomb a German ambush on the Rufiji River, but through engine trouble had to descend in the bush, the machine landing with broken propeller in a bog. It took him four days to make his way to a place of safety through the bush infested with wild animals.

He tells how in the dusk he was confronted with an ugly black animal about four feet high, with vicious tusks. He climbed a tree and prepared to put in the night there. Later he opened his eyes and saw something like two green electric bulbs about 30 feet from the tree. They moved round it in a circle. This continued for 45 minutes.

"The tension was unbearable. I wanted to scream, shout, and yell all in one, but instead I burst out with 'The Admiral's Broom,' and with a full-throated bass I roared out the three verses. No applause, but a reward—the leopard slunk away. Why had I not thought of it before?"

"I went through my repertoire. I laughed as I finished 'Two Eyes of Grey.' It seemed so ridiculous. Then I got on to hymns, remembered four verses of 'O God, Our Help in Ages Past,' and sang the 'Amen,' too. The whole thing had its ludicrous side."

Next morning whilst swimming a river he passed seven yards from a crocodile's mouth, but just reached the bank in time. Without food or arms—his only weapon of defence his nail scissors—his progress through the awful bush was about 100 yards an hour. His clothing was in ribbons, and his flesh exposed to the thorns, sword grass and flies.

He swam seven more rivers that day and sank down exhausted against a tree. He could hear a lion roaring about 500 yards away, and, somewhat nearer, the grunting of a hippopotamus.

"Being exhausted I more or less lost consciousness for perhaps half an hour or so. Nothing short of a hippo charging could have made me climb a tree. Am afraid life had little to offer about that time."

It was whilst lying here that the lieutenant "had the annoying experience of surveying two large baboons, the size of a small man, quarrelling over my trousers, now in threads, and among the tops of 40-foot trees."

It was not until he had passed another horrible day and equally terrible night in the bush that "at last was picked up by some natives. Their eyes seldom left me," he adds: "Undoubtedly I was a strange sight—my legs bare and bleeding, my short vest sodden, dirty and torn, no trousers of course, just a dirty sun helmet, a short stick in my right hand, and with four days' growth of beard on my dirty face."

Unpleasant War Bread.

Reports of illness through eating war bread are being received from all over the country, and the news that Lord Rhonda has instituted an inquiry into the cause will come as a relief to many. The bread is said to have given rise to digestive troubles and then eruptions in many districts. This is said to be due to the fact that some bakers are using imported flour that contains beans and rice—ingredients which are quite unfit for bread making. The inclusion of the germ sets free a large percentage of fat, which is unsuitable for weak digestions. Then, of course, regulation flour does not possess the keeping properties which wheat flour does, and this fact again gives rise to disorders. The grey loaf can never be as palatable as the white one, but it can be made equally digestible and nourishing if the necessary precautions are taken. Still, English bread of to-day with all its defects, is not as bad as that which the Parisians had to eat during their hunger with at the time of the siege of Paris, when a quantity of straw was mixed with the flour in order to help one eat the suggestion of grain.

Wasting Young Banksters.

Australia may have failed to put conscription into effect, but it has never failed to share the burden of the war. Its contribution is beyond calculation, both in men and in material. Now it intends that the weight shall not fall entirely on the shoulders of the willing, so it has ordered a tax of 10 per cent. to be placed on the taxable income of all unenlisted men who are eligible for service in the ranks. This is only fair to the men who are fighting the battle to keep the enemy from the shores of the Commonwealth. Those who have the benefit of the music should help to pay the piper.

His Trifling Mistake.

Lady Exhibitor (at the close of a baby show)—But, good gracious! This is not my baby, sir! Checktaker—Very sorry, madam. It's the last left. The checks got mixed up somehow. But I'll take care that it shan't occur again.
